

MF 722

JUN 26 1922

©CLL 17501

"BLOW 'EM UP."

By Hal Roach.

The comedy is filled to the brim with laughable situations, showing the exciting life of the governor, who is constantly on the lookout for a plot against him. Bombs are delivered to him through the mail and men lie in ambush along the city streets attempting to take his life. An amusing instance is when two packages arrive, and "Snub" orders his secretary to open them. The first package proves to be a bomb, so the second one is thrown away. The last package is then opened and a beautiful vase, all smashed in bits, is discovered to be the contents.

But the height of comedy is reached in the headquarters of the anarchists. Here the senior class in bomb making is seen at work experimenting with T.N.T. and other high explosives. By accident "Snub" stumbles into the den and the fun waxes fast and furious. The den is located in a basement, under the street, and Pollard is about to be blown sky high when a ton of coal is dumped down the manhole onto his persecutors. A surprising climax brings the offering to a close, showing how "Snub" gets the upper hand of the anarchists.

This document is from the Library of Congress
“Motion Picture Copyright Descriptions Collection,
1912-1977”

Collections Summary:

The Motion Picture Copyright Descriptions Collection, Class L and Class M, consists of forms, abstracts, plot summaries, dialogue and continuity scripts, press kits, publicity and other material, submitted for the purpose of enabling descriptive cataloging for motion picture photoplays registered with the United States Copyright Office under Class L and Class M from 1912-1977.

Class L Finding Aid:

<https://hdl.loc.gov/loc.mbrsmi/eadmbrsmi.mi020004>

Class M Finding Aid:

<https://hdl.loc.gov/loc.mbrsmi/eadmbrsmi.mi021002>

National Audio-Visual Conservation Center
The Library of Congress